OVERVIEW

With every consult and every interview, I work every day to lock down insightful details that can improve treatment on many levels, from parent and adult patient training to specific training/learning for our child and adolescent patients so they can better envision who they wish to become. Self-management evolves with that respectful, encouraging process. This review will help with that evolution.

It's my strong opinion that all of us must live on a growing curve, a learning curve, to constantly review and improve both target recognition – our inarguable emotional and self-management objectives - as well as our biological needs from nutritional, to stress-management, to exercise. Comprehensive diagnosis and treatment is my personal and corporate mission. Reality matters. Details matter.

Today we live in a Galileo Mind Moment with abundant new technologies that provide improved answers for psychiatric treatment failure on many levels, yet so often denial rules the day because treatment standards are based on superficial appearances. <http://corebrainjournal.com/galileo>

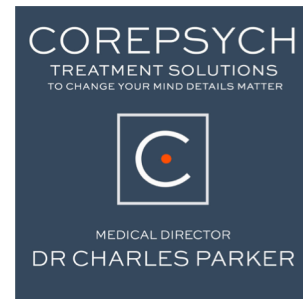

With remarkable new telescopes, we can see an improved treatment universe. Bringing everyone onto the team can be complicated by time and distance so we make a special effort to set methods of feedback and education from the outset. I do work in the context of a good company. These Critical Thinking Experts agree on the absolute necessity for evolved thinking: <http://corebrainjournal.com/critical>

COREPSYCH INFORMATION RESOURCES

- Biomedical Tests I have routinely used for years at CorePsych for treatment failure - with video explanations of each test: <http://corepsych.com/tests>
- IgG: Video explanations for food sensitivities that interfere with treatment accuracy/effectiveness, remain a source of denial – except for Dr. Fasano at Harvard: <http://corepsych.com/gi> | <http://geni.us/fasano>
- Video explanations on evolved Executive Function Diagnosis beyond the appearances of ADHD: <http://corepsych.com/diagnosis>
- Video explanations on medication dosage for ADHD meds: <http://corepsych.com/dose>

COREBRAIN JOURNAL INFORMATION RESOURCES

- My mission at CoreBrain Journal – CBJ - For helpful interviews with more than 220 professionals on multiple medical/psychiatric issues, & listeners in 97 countries: <http://corebrainjournal.com/mission> - Subscribe for updates.
- One specific page we recommend at CBJ that provides a direct connection to our work with children and adolescents with decades of expert child and adolescent treatment experiences is easily available here: <http://corebrainjournal.com/teens>

- For anyone searching for improved coping strategies: <http://corebrainjournal.com/mindset>
- Informed laboratory testing reveals underlying somatic, body imbalances beyond using only medical interventions for previous treatment failure. Multiple experts agree: <http://corebrainjournal.com/testing>
- Walsh: An example of our work with Dr. William Walsh on Methylation & Multiple Treatment Failures: <http://corebrainjournal.com/115>
- OATS: Organic Acid Testing Interview - <http://corebrainjournal.com/215>
- Candida: A discussion on Candida findings regarding diagnosis & treatment failure: <http://corebrainjournal.com/097>
- Veterans are frequently misdiagnosed: <http://corebrainjournal.com/vets>
- I regularly provide second opinions after SPECT brain imaging from Amen Clinics, as our laboratory molecular and cellular data is more cost-effective and provides additional accurate, targeted information. I can both read SPECT scans and report on cellular details using molecular physiology in addition to SPECT findings of blood flow.

ADHD AND AUTISM

YOUR PLAN

This is a start. It takes a team, so please review the specific topics of interest so you can become prepared for the multiple new concepts and intervention possibilities. New targets create a different language beyond appearances. Learning that language will enhance effective communication for improved, participatory medical management. Together we can make a difference.

ADMINISTRATIVE NOTES
